HAINS TRIAL TO BE SHORT
COMPARED WITH THAW CASE

New York, Aug. 20.—District Attorney Darrin, who has charge of the prosecution of the Hains brothers for the killing of William C. Annis, said today that Queens County will not tolerate a great expenditure of money to try the case, and there was no necessity for a long trial. Mr. Darrin continued:

"The trial of the Hains brothers will not be a repetition of the Harry Thaw case. To begin with, I do not think a Queens County jury will stand for a 'trial-arena' defense."

"The application which I have sent to Gov. Hughes, asking for a special grand jury, will, I expect, be granted, and that the governor will name a judge to preside who will see that the Hains brothers have a fair and impartial trial, but at the same time no unnecessary delay. I expect to be ready to try the case in October."

New York, Aug. 20.—Frank G. Wild, counsel for Mrs. Peter C. Hains, wife of the man who killed William C. Annis, made an authorized statement for his client this afternoon. It was in the way of a denial of the charges made against Mrs. Hains by John F. McIntyre in the building up of a defense.

Mr. Wild starts off by denying that Mrs. Hains made any "round table" charges against her husband in her answer to his divorce suit. He admits, however, that she did make charges against his moral character with reference to their conjugal relations.

Mr. McIntyre was quoted to-day as questioning the legitimacy of one of the three children of Capt. and Mrs. Hains. He has since denied that he made any such statement. Mr. Wild indignantly refutes the insinuation on behalf of his client. He also denies that Mrs. Hains submitted to a criminal operation just prior to the arrival of her husband from the Philippines.

Capt. Hains Affected.
Capt. Hains appears to be on the verge of a physical and mental breakdown in the Long Island City jail. He spent to-day pacing up and down the corridor in front of his cell, moaning: "He debauched my wife; he debauched my wife."

Hains started on this line of indicated mental weakness the day after his arrest. He refused to answer questions put to him to-day by Joseph Shay, associate counsel for the defense, who spent nearly two hours with the Hains brothers.

District Attorney Darrin and the police authorities declare that Capt. Hains is beginning to relax. Mr. Shay, who is on the other hand, declares that Capt. Hains is undoubtedly insane.

"The man cannot make a lucid statement," Mr. Shay said. "His mind has collapsed."

"How about T. Jenkins Hains, the brother?" Mr. Shay was asked.

"I am willing to admit to any jury," replied Mr. Shay, "that any man writing the kind of stuff that T. Jenkins Hains writes is certainly crazy."

To Combat Insanity Plea.
The district attorney is laying his plans to combat an insanity defense. He takes the ground that Capt. Hains' apparent breakdown is due entirely to remorse and explains it in this fashion: "This depressed condition of Capt. Hains, visible to all at the inquest, does not to my mind indicate insanity, present or previous. It simply shows that this man, with his acute, trained mind, is now beginning to realize the enormity of his crime, the disgrace he has brought upon his children and his parents, and the danger he faces at his trial."

"He has begun to suffer already. The indignation and outraged self-esteem that prompted him to do murder has deserted him, and he will suffer keenly irrespective of what the law may do in the way of punishment."

The district attorney was asked if, in view of Capt. Hains' condition, a special grand jury would be placed over him to prevent a possible attempt at suicide. He replied that he had every confidence in the sheriff, who would doubtless place guards if they were needed.

Another Man In Case.
That there is another man in the Hains-Annis scandal was admitted to-day by friends of Annis. This man was named as co-represent in the original suit filed by Capt. Hains against his wife.

Speaking of the suit at the time, Mrs. Hains said: "The man named as co-representant by my husband is one of the wealthiest and best-known insurance men in New York. He is absolutely innocent. It appears that the insurance man succeeded in convincing Capt. Hains and T. Jenkins Hains of his innocence subsequent to the filing of the divorce papers. Incidentally he managed to throw strong suspicion on Annis. The identity of the insurance man is known to a dozen or more persons directly concerned in the scandal."

CIGARETTE HIS ANAESTHETIC.

Railroad Calmly Smokes While

Doctors Cut Off His Leg.

Edgmont, S. Dak., Aug. 20.—Surgeons to-day amputated the leg of W. G. Blair, of Omaha, near the hip while Blair smoked a cigarette and "joshed" them about their bloody work.

His leg was injured in a railroad accident near here, and the surgeons decided that it was necessary to amputate it. They prepared to administer an anaesthetic, but Blair would not permit them to do it. He insisted that if they would give him a cigarette, he could go through the operation without being put to sleep, and he did.

MAN FALLS 180 FEET.

Bridge Expert Meets Terrible Death

In Virginia.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Bristol, Va., Aug. 20.—Mike Scobie, of Cleveland, Ohio, a bridge expert, in the employ of the Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio Railway, fell a distance of 180 feet from a bridge which he was engaged in examining in Scott County to-day, and was instantly killed. His body was washed into a pulp. Practically every bone was broken, and his flesh was little more than a jelly-like mass. It was impossible to recognize his features. The body was brought to Bristol this afternoon. The remains were sent to his home in Cleveland, to-night.

STRICKEN IN MIDST OF SPEECH

Dedication Crowds See Prelate Fall

to Platform.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 20.—The dedication services at St. Bernard's Seminary came near having a tragic ending to-day when Right Rev. Bernard J. McQuaid, bishop of the diocese, in whose honor hundreds of distinguished prelates and gathered, collapsed while making an address, and for several minutes was thought to be at the point of death.

The blessed oils were brought, and one of the priests prepared to administer the sacrament of extreme unction; but a physician, who had attended the bishop during the ceremonies, revived him with a hypodermic injection in each arm, and the venerable prelate was then wheeled in a chair from the room.

Bishop McQuaid was eighty-five years old. He has been bishop of Rochester for forty years. Most Rev. Diomedes Falconio, apostolic delegate to the United States; Archbishop Quigley, of Chicago, two-score of bishops and monsignors, and about 200 priests attended the ceremonies.

The exercises were planned as a part of the observance of Bishop McQuaid's fortieth anniversary in the episcopate.

SMITH OUT OF RACE.

Not a Candidate for Allison's Seat

in the Senate.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 20.—Representative Walter I. Smith, of Council Bluffs, announced to-day that he would not be a candidate for the seat in the United States Senate made vacant by the death of the late William B. Allison. He said he preferred to remain in the House.

The anti-Cummins element is somewhat disconcerted by Representative Smith's announcement, as there was much talk of solidifying the stand-pat strength in Smith's interest and on the belief that he would be the strongest candidate against Cummins. There is now much talk of Congressman G. N. Haugen, of Northwood. Haugen is said to be seriously considering the matter, and has spent much time canvassing the situation.

CONGRATULATES AUTOIST.

President Inspects Machine that

Won World Race.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 20.—This was the President's busiest day of the summer. In addition to receiving Vice Presidential Candidate Sherman and discussing the New York State situation with Chairman Hitchcock, he found time to look over the automobile that won the New-York-to-Paris race and say some pleasant things to the crew that took the machine on its trip around the world.

After the inspection of the automobile was over, the President listened to Assistant Secretary of State Bacon's report on conditions in Cuba and Porto Rico. Two other visitors outside of the political zone were Capt. Cameron McR. Winslow and James H. Kidder. Capt. Winslow, commanding the battleship New Hampshire, represented the United States navy at Quebec during the recent visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada.

CONFERENCE AT CHICAGO

Will Straighten Out Affairs and Expand Plans.

Moving Picture Men Induce Nebraska to Show How He Conducts Himself at Home During Campaign, and the Film Man, Who Came Direct from Oyster Bay, Follows Him Around Industrious.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 20.—Mr. Bryan left to-night on his first speaking tour of the campaign. He was accompanied by his private secretary and a quartet of newspaper men. He will be back in Lincoln on August 28. In the meantime, he will confer with party leaders in Iowa, speaking to-morrow at Des Moines on the tariff, his first formal speech of the campaign in which he directly discusses issues.

He will spend Saturday and Sunday at Chicago in conference with Chairman Mack and other managers. He will be joined by R. L. Metcalfe, of Nebraska, and other members of the campaign textbook committee.

Mr. Bryan had a long talk over the phone to-day with Chairman Mack, and the latter is to summon a number of leaders to confer with Bryan. It is hinted here that some little friction has developed at headquarters, with Secretary Woodson in the middle of it, but its exact nature is not stated.

Has Additional Plans.

Mr. Bryan goes to Chicago with some additional plans he wants to submit, all looking toward a vigorous pushing of a speaking campaign, beginning early next month. He expects his time to be fully occupied up to the hour he leaves Monday for Indianapolis. He has an anti-trust speech to deliver at the Kern notification.

Thursday he is to be in Topeka to talk on the guarantee of bank deposits. He stays two days, and then goes to Minnesota for a speech at a fair. The South Dakota date has been cancelled. Pettigrew getting his wires crossed on the month.

This afternoon Mr. Bryan had a long consultation with C. C. Stockslager, who came from Idaho to discuss and present the mix-up in the Democratic situation there. Stockslager heads the anti-Polbois faction as a candidate for Senator.

Despite the fact that he was a very busy man to-day, Mr. Bryan yielded to the persuasion of a moving picture man, who said he came directly from Oyster Bay. Mr. Bryan showed him how he acted when around the house and in his ordinary home life.

The film man followed him around with the machine.

KERN AT HEADQUARTERS.

Chairman Mack Receives Two Important Callers.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Chairman Norman E. Mack, of the Democratic National Committee, had a very busy day. Two important visitors were John W. Kern, Vice Presidential nominee, who stopped on his way from Milwaukee, and Thomas Taggart, of Indiana. Assurance that the railroad men of the country are practically unanimous for Bryan and Kern was given Chairman Mack by Charles W. Slater, of Washington, who has toured the entire West since the Denver convention.

E. L. Jones, national committeeman from Maine, also called at headquarters. From Indianapolis Mr. Mack will go to Buffalo, Washington, and New York.

Chairman Hitchcock, of the Republican National Committee, is expected in Chicago about the time the Democratic chiefs leave for Indianapolis.

It was rumored that efforts will be made by the Republican national chairman to induce Richard Yates to become a candidate for United States Senator in an effort to harmonize the Illinois Republicans.

Tragedies.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 20.—When Edward Cook, of the Finney neighborhood, in Tazewell County, to-day quarreled with his wife in their home, he drew a long-bladed knife and swore he would cut her throat.

Before Cook could put his threat into execution, his wife grabbed up a shotgun that stood in a corner of the room and blazed away at him, the load taking effect in the man's face.

His nose and parts of the cheeks were torn away and both eyes destroyed. Cook will not survive the night.

Several members of Cook's family have been shot to death in pistol duels in the past few years.

NEARLY SETTLED THAT HUGHES IS ITPresident, Mr. Sherman, and Hitchcock Talk It Over.

STATEMENT SOON TO BE MADE

Believed Announcement that He Is Administration's Choice for New York Governorship Will Be Made—Result of Chairman's Application of His Ear to the Ground.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 20.—The New York State governorship situation held the center of the limelight in the Republican national campaign to-day, when Vice Presidential Candidate James S. Sherman and Chairman Hitchcock, together with Assistant Secretary of State Bacon, ex-Representative George Smith, the newly appointed treasurer of the New York State Republican committee, and others gathered at Sagamore Hill to discuss with President Roosevelt the question of Gov. Hughes' renomination. Although no definite statement was given out here at the end of the conference, Chairman Hitchcock intimated that at least a partial decision had been reached, and that the attitude of those who were directing the national campaign would be made evident in a very short time.

It has long been apparent that President Roosevelt, in spite of his announced determination to keep out of local fights, held the key to the situation in New York and that the machine leaders in the State would do nothing without his advice and consent. Both he and Chairman Hitchcock determined in the beginning to subordinate everything to the choice of a man who could do the most to help Mr. Taft carry the State. A great effort has been made by the machine leaders to prove both to the President and Chairman Hitchcock that Hughes was not the man.

Some of the "Antis."

Herbert Parsons, William Barnes, Jr., Francis Hendricks, Representative Fassett, and other leaders have come down here and gone up the hill loaded with anti-Hughes arguments. Chairman Hitchcock has also been besieged, and both he and the President have been pretty thoroughly convinced that the feeling for and against the renomination of Gov. Hughes stood about even.

That was the decision to-day, and it is believed to be only a matter of days, or perhaps hours, when the word will be passed to the New York leaders that the administration and the Republican national campaign committee favor the choice of Gov. Hughes to head the ticket in New York and help Taft win the State.

Hitchcock's Ear to the Ground.

Chairman Hitchcock has had his ear to the ground for several weeks past. He has listened to every rumor and report, whether for or against Gov. Hughes, and all the time he has declined to commit himself. To-day, however, upon his arrival at Oyster Bay, he intimated that he had reached a conclusion, and that he was ready to recommend to President Roosevelt some course of action.

Mr. Hitchcock did not go in quite as far as that. It was said on good authority that he had found the preponderance of evidence to be in favor of the renomination of Gov. Hughes.

This decision, it is believed, will be announced at once, for Mr. Hitchcock is strongly impressed with the necessity of clearing up the governorship situation in New York before the national campaign is opened in that State.

Her best previous performance, which was also over the short northern course and was completed on November 2 last, was 4 days 18 hours and 40 minutes. On the trip she finished to-night she covered 2,781 miles at an average hourly speed of 25.05 knots.

DUTCH STONE BOAT

FROM VENEZUELA

People of Willemstad Force

Vessel Out of Harbor.

MERCHANTS CLOSE THE STORES

Master of Schooner Insisted Upon

Unloading Cargo, Which He Declared He Owned and Had Not

Paid Castro Any Sum for Permit to Load with Cabana.

Dutch residents of the Island of Cura-cao have declared a boycott against Venezuelan goods, as a result of the strained relations between Venezuela and Holland.

Ellas H. Cheney, American consul at Curaçao, reported to the State Department yesterday that several weeks ago the Venezuelan schooner Maria Abigail appeared off the harbor of Willemstad with a cargo of sugar and hat straw, known as cabana. The schooner had loaded in Venezuela supposedly under a special permit from President Castro, who two weeks before had refused such permits to merchants of Maracaibo.

As soon as the vessel appeared in the harbor, the citizens of the island made known their disapproval, and a dozen local merchants signed a letter which was sent to the owner and captain of the schooner, advising him not to remain in the harbor with his Venezuelan cargo.

Did Not Want to Leave.

The master of the vessel insisted upon remaining, and the citizens stoned the ship. Soldiers were called out to protect the vessel and to prevent crowds from gathering in the neighboring wharves and streets. The owner of the vessel interviewed the local authorities of Willemstad and prominent citizens, who advised him to withdraw from the harbor.

He insisted that he owned the cargo outright, and had not paid anything to President Castro for the special permit to load his vessel in Venezuelan water. The people of Curaçao, however, did not believe his story.

While the vessel was in port many stores were closed to show their disapproval of importing Venezuelan products.

Finally the schooner sailed for Maracaibo without landing any of her cargo. She was in port only two and a half hours, and saluted the Dutch flag at Fort Amsterdam, as she was passing out of the harbor. The salute was answered and the incident closed.

The State Department yesterday received a mail dispatch from James W.

Johnson, American consul at Porto Cabello, giving the text of the last note from the minister of foreign affairs of Venezuela to Mr. de Reus, Dutch minister, who was recently expelled by President Castro, who claimed Minister de Reus had injured Venezuela by his indiscreet writings; that the Dutch cruiser

Gelderland had failed to salute the Venezuelan forts, and that the Dutch residents of Curaçao had attacked the Venezuelan consul as a justification for his action in expelling the Dutch minister.
